This November the FAA Production Studios was pleased to host the FAASTeam Executive Oversight Council meeting. We were glad to have the opportunity to demonstrate the capacity in which the studio currently operates as well as future capabilities.

Our Guests included... Kevin L. Clover, AWP; Fred Walker, ASO; Lawrence Fields, AEA; Marion Dittman, ACE; John S. Duncan, AAL; Dave Cann, AWA; Colleen Kennedy-Roberts, AWA; Kenneth R. Spivey, ASO.

The esteemed group toured the facility while volunteers demonstrated the cameras, spotlights, sound, stage operations, and viewed a studio public relations presentation. They were also treated to a visit to the control room for a look at how everything is directed and comes together in the operation. They visited post production for a look and explanation of just how much time and effort goes into the final product editing and got a close up look and explanation of our satellite uplink equipment.

The expanded tour and operational demonstration availed the group the opportunity to ask a multitude of questions while learning how much the studio has accomplished in a very short period of time and how much support we are capable of offering the safety program.

We hope to have the opportunity to facilitate similar meetings and groups at the studio, in the near future, in an effort to raise the awareness of just how valuable a tool the studio is and what an important role it plays currently and for the future of aviation safety.
