NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
Aeronautical Study 08-AAL-51NR
Request for Public Input

Proposal to Decommission
The Jenny Outer Marker (OM) at
Nome (OME), Alaska

1. Proposed Change. The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is seeking input from interested parties regarding a proposal to decommission the Jenny OM at the Nome Airport, Nome, Alaska.
2. Public Input: The public is invited to submit, in writing, comments regarding the overall aeronautical aspects of the proposed decommissioning of the Jenny OM.

The Jenny OM was installed to serve as the outer marker for the Instrument Landing System (ILS) Standard Instrument Approach Procedure (SIAP) to Runway 28 at the Nome Airport. When Distance Measuring Equipment (DME) was installed and a Final Approach Fix established based on DME distance, the OM was no longer necessary for the ILS SIAP. The OM equipment is still operational and is serviced routinely by electronics technicians even though it is not needed for any instrument approach procedure. The cost of routine maintenance and equipment repair will be eliminated by decommissioning the Jenny OM and removing the equipment.

This proposal is subject to change after review of public comments.

Comments in writing concurring with or objecting to the proposed change may be indicated by use of the attached endorsement form, or may be mailed separately, or may be emailed (see link below).

3. Comment Information: Comments must be received by close of business, Friday, January 30, 2009 to be considered. You may E-Mail comments to 9-AAL-530-Comments@faa.gov or address your reply to the Federal Aviation Administration, Alaska Flight Service Information Area Group, 222 W. 7th Avenue, #14, Anchorage, AK 99513-7587.

This proposal can also be reviewed via internet on our web page.
