

232. AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS BULLETIN NO. 1-94-31

EMERGENCY MEDICAL KITS.

This bulletin provides information about potential problems associated with medical kits.

- a. Part 121 of the FAR requires emergency medical kits. Part 121 of the FAR, Appendix A, provides a list of the required contents of medical kits. Each certificate holder is responsible for assuring that the approved medical kits meet the specifications and requirements in FAR Part 121, Appendix A. Any or all of the contents of some medical kits may have a temperature range (window temperature). For example, the window temperature range could be from 59 degrees - 77 degrees F. It is possible that a certificate holder may not be aware of the window temperatures for drugs contained in the medical kits.
- b. POI's are requested to ensure their assigned certificate holders are aware of the temperature range which may be established for some drugs contained in the medical kits.
