Subject: IFR Enroute Charting Color Adjustments

The IFR Enroute charts are currently being converted to a modernized data base driven production process. The various digital formats we offer present a challenge to portray the optimal color display across varied end-user display platforms and plotting or printing needs. We are in the process of optimizing the colors to match the specified historical color representations on charts of previous cycles. Look for improved color rendering with the 5 JAN 2017 chart editions.

Note: These adjustments do not affect chart information.
