FAA RECOGNIZED (FAAR)

PSYCHIATRISTS

(Updated 11-18-2026)

FAA Recognized (FAAR) Psychiatrists are board-certified psychiatrists available to provide comprehensive, in-person mental health evaluations for aviators. Their opinion is independent, and the FAA alone decides certification. They have attended FAA-sponsored training to learn the level of detail the FAA needs and the importance of explaining their reasoning. Each must attest to current board certification, an unrestricted medical license, and ongoing training. A FAAR evaluation is not required unless the FAA requests it, but it is most helpful when a mental health history is complicated, prior opinions conflict, remission status is unclear, or input on monitoring or treatment is needed. Ask your Aviation Medical Examiner (AME) or see the FAA Guide for AMEs to learn when one is needed.
